

We're talking about...BOYFRIENDS!!

By Rachel Totterdell

Boys: one of the trickiest things you will ever come across. And they say girls are the complicated ones!

I've often wondered how many hours I've wasted stressing and thinking about a boy I may or may not go out with, or even like that much! Does he like me? What will everyone think? Is he the one? What will our babies look like!? And what my mum has always said in response is....
No Rush!!!

Maybe the best approach is to stop, take a deep breath and relax. Going out with a boy is not something to be hurried and is something to be enjoyed.

Sometimes it seems that there is just so much pressure to be going out with someone, and you can think that God has hand picked your very own Romeo who you've got to somehow find from all the hundreds of boys out there! I don't think God could ever be this mean! There may be several 'right' boys out there for you, but there's no rush to find one of them, or to try them all at once!

So... what does God want for you in a boy? Someone who's your friend, who makes you feel good about every part of yourself including your relationship with God, someone who's relaxed around you and who you can be yourself with. And I think that's really exciting and worth waiting for.

Maybe God hasn't hand got one ideal boy for you, but that doesn't mean He's not interested. I find it's best to chat to God when I like a boy or I'm thinking about dating someone. And at the end of the day, I'd rather be having a laugh with my girly mates than be waiting around for my imaginary Romeo!
